WILLS IN ENGLAND.

Interesting Documents That Are on File in Somerset House.

In the heart of London, facing on one side the famous thoroughfare known as the Strand and on the other looking on the Thames, will be found Somerset House, once a private palace, but now devoted to various departments of the inland revenue of Great Britain.

Perhaps the most interesting government department in Somerset House is that devoted to the filing of wills, and, as might be supposed, the collection is immense, varied and extraordinary, ranging from the will of Shakespeare himself containing practically the only known autograph of the world renowned poet right down to mere curiosities in wills, such as those carried on the lid of a desk or contained within secret cabinets or esoteric.

Here for 25 cents one may inspect the will of any British person. There are wills leaving immense sums to cats and dogs, wills written in human blood. But the most interesting one has quite a romantic history.

It is the will of a British official who died in Cairo of the plague. Before his death he took care to prepare his will upon parchment pressed from the skin of a freshly killed goat, but as he handled this skin himself it was thought later on that the will might have the power of transmitting the dreadful plague from which its writer died. Accordingly, after having been passed from hand to hand with somewhat disastrous results in the way of plague and death, the will was put into a bottle of spirits. Arrived at Somerset House, the will was read to the next of kin and deposited among the archives of the department.—Kansas City Independent.

A Good Scheme.

Husband: Why do you scold the butcher? It isn't his fault that the meat comes to the table all dried up. Scold the cook. Wife: I don't dare to, but I'm in hopes that if I keep on scolding the butcher he'll get mad and come around and scold the cook.—New York Weekly.

INDIGESTION.

With its companions, heart burn, flatulence, torpidity of the liver, constipation, palpitation of the heart, poor blood, headache and other nervous symptoms, salivary pain, foul tongue, offensive breath and a legion of other ailments, is at once the most widespread and distressing malady among the American people. The Herbine treatment will cure all these troubles. Get the bottle. All druggists.

Freemasonry in Tibet.

Any of the British officers now on the road to Lassa, Tibet, who may happen to be Freemasons have perhaps just an outside chance of solving an interesting question, says the New York Globe, for there are those who believe that the high Rosierian adepts, having emigrated to the east about the beginning of the seventeenth century, still inhabit the Tibetan plateaus today, and some of the mysteries of Freemasonry have been supposed to have been acquired from the Rosierians. If they ever existed the Rosierians were a secret society possessing the art of turning base metals into gold and vowing themselves to gratuitous healing of the sick. Skeptics, however, maintain that there never was such a society, but that it was invented as a ponderous joke by a learned seventeenth century treatise writer.

The pill that will fill the bill, Without a gripe, To cleanse the liver without a quiver, Take one at night.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers are small, easy to take, easy and gentle in effect, yet they are so certain in results that no one who uses them is disappointed. For quick relief from biliousness, sick headache, torpid liver, jaundice, dizziness, and all troubles arising from an inactive, sluggish liver, Early Risers are unequalled. Sold by G. W. Fisher.

Eternity.

Eternity is incomprehensible. When the latest strain has exerted every drop of water in all our oceans and every grain of sand in all our lands to the furthest away star and brought it all back again, stopping for a century rest of each planet on the way both ways, then will we see the first rays of the sunrise of eternity's endless day in the east of the beginning.

This being the case it is suggested that we don't cram ourselves with this world's foods and drink so much of earthly water that it will take half of the everlasting to get our systems in shape to enjoy what's left of eternity.—Hayfield Mower.

Why Not Drink PURE WATER?

The Orange City Mineral Springs water is unsurpassed in purity, being absolutely free from organic matter, and possesses mineral properties especially beneficial in cases of kidney and liver troubles.

This water has received flattering endorsement from such men as Ernest G. Smith, professor of chemistry, Beloit College, Beloit, Wisconsin, one of the best chemists in this country; J. B. Ogier, Director, New York, and others. Dr. Boynton, of Cleveland, Ohio, writes: "I am using the Orange City Mineral Water and recommend it to others." It needs only a trial to convince any one that it has no superior as a table water.

Many people have visited Orange City by advice of their physicians for the purpose of testing the Mineral Spring Water, deriving great benefit from its use. The water is drawn from a subterranean spring 117 feet below the surface, is very palatable and all together the best to be found in the South.

The Orange City Mineral Spring Water received the only diploma at the State Fair at Jacksonville in competition with many other displays. It is now being bottled and sent out by the Orange City Mineral Spring Co. It is put up in attractive style in cases of 12 half gallon bottles. For further information, address

A Very Close Call.

"I stuck to my engine, although every joint ached and every nerve was racked with pain," writes G. W. Bellamy, a locomotive fireman, of Burlington, Iowa. "I was weak and pale, without any appetite and all run down. As I was about to give up, I got a bottle of Electric Bitters, and after taking it, I felt as well as I ever did in my life."
